Brewery Gulch Newsdealer Faces Court Following Street Fight

The case against A. C. Block, proprietor of a cigar stand on Brewery Gulch, charged with disturbing the peace Saturday night after the fight at the Grand theatre, came up for trial in police court yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock but was continued until this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the request of S. K. Williams, counsel for Block, who desired more time to find some witnesses. The case had previously been set for 10 o'clock yesterday morning but was continued on account of the absence of any witnesses for Block.

The testimony of the witnesses that were present was heard. F. C. Rarick testified that he came out of the theatre directly after the prize fight and saw a small boy who had been selling pop-corn for Block in the theatre settling up his accounts with the cigar-stand man. Block, according to Rarick, took by force all the money the boy had while the boy protested that some of the money was his own. Rarick said that he asked Block to give the boy any money that was his and that Block picked up a bottle full of pink soda-water and broke it over his head. Several other witnesses testified that they saw Block strike Rarick with the bottle.

The boy, Junior Montgomery, was put on the stand. He said that previous to the fight an army officer had asked him who would win the fight and he replied that Dalton would win. The officer then said he would bet 50 cents on Bryant and the boy said that he replied, "You're called." (Amusement in court) After the fight the boy sought the officer who paid his bet. He then went to Block, he said with 45 cents from the sale of pop-corn and the 50 cents the captain had given him. Block, he said, took all the money from him.

Block did not take the stand in his own defense. The trial will be concluded today.

Germany Gives Up Plan to Circulate Porcelain Coinage

BERLIN, Aug. 23. — The proposal to manufacture porcelain coin to the amount of 60,000,000 marks for the German republic has been abandoned. Some already had been produced at the Meissen manufactory and were disks of terra cotta color unglazed and unmarked but of faultless artistic imprint. Experts of the Reichsbank, however, advised the government against their adoption, mainly on the ground that they would be unwieldy in the pocket purse, could not be easily distinguished by touch and could not be counted with existing counting machinery.

One of the most important points raised in opposition to their use was that they might be imitated without particular difficulty except for a degree of hardness which could only be ascertained by tests by experts in porcelain.
